

I am commenting about Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to literally force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary. Since a recent visit to Spain where we were exposed to very unbiased international news, my husband and I have been very aware and concerned about this process of media consolidation and its' impact on are perspective of what is real and whyat is invented. The fact that they can use our airwaves free (and we pay) obligates them to a higher integrity in broadcasting to the public...or should. I am a history buff and an educator. The public needs well researched correct information placed before them. This is what makes democracy work...well informed decisions by an informed public not smear journalism designed to contrive and deceive the naive public. They count on that. And we are becoming more cynical and untrusting. It is bottomline journalism. It is unacceptable. Thankyou.
